Public Statement

Every year on 20 November, Transgender Day of Remembrance is observed. This day is observed in remembrance to those who lost their lives to transphobia. The feeling of hatred against transgender people is called transphobia. Transgender people are subjected to various forms of violence across homes, families, society, schools and educational institutions, workplace, public space, and so on. The widespread hatred and malice towards transgender people have led them losing their lives: some murdered, and some led to committing suicide. It is important to draw attention to the continued violence endured by transgender people.

We call upon people to light candles, diyo, etc in remembrance to those trans people who lost their lives enduring transphobic violence. We will be posting those pictures with our messages on social media. We urge folks to make creative posts highlighting the issues of widespread transphobia and violence against transgender people. Please do include the hashtags #TdorNepal and #TdorNepal2020 while making posts on social media. We will be following the hashtags and sharing the posts to amplify voices further.
